39 Broadway
Suite 930
New York, NY 10006

Theodore Torry is an associate attorney whose practice focuses on civil RICO litigation, with additional experience in business litigation, real estate-related disputes, and regulatory matters. He represents clients through all stages of civil litigation, including fact investigation, legal research, motion practice, discovery, and trial preparation. His work has involved the analysis of complex liability issues, discrepancies across records and testimony, and the development of practical litigation strategy in matters involving premises liability, negligence, property damage, and contractual disputes.

Theodore also has experience in civil defense litigation, representing insureds in general liability, premises liability, labor law, workers' compensation, and coverage matters. Before entering insurance defense practice, he developed substantial experience in housing, real estate, and public-facing legal matters through work involving tenant and property disputes, administrative proceedings, and court-based litigation. He has also worked with the New York City Loft Board and has experience handling disputes involving regulatory compliance, property conditions, and contested occupancy issues. This background gives him a broad litigation perspective and a strong command of both procedural and factual case development.
